Closing the Gap: Bridges for Access and Lifelong Learning

This latest FACE publication derived from papers delivered at the FACE 2015 annual conference hosted by the University of South Wales. Drawing on practice, policy and research the papers provide a variety of different and often challenging accounts and understandings of how we can make the impossible possible by closing the gap and building bridges for access and lifelong learning.

The conference brought together delegates not only from across the UK but also a wide variety of international participants.

These rich and varied voices come strongly through in the chapters included in this publication enriching our understanding and informing our future practice.
